

One page communication passport templates

A one page communication passport is easy to read information about a person's communication needs and preferences. It's helps people such as friends, teachers, caregivers, professionals, or support staff to know what to do to best communicate with the person it's about.

A communication passport includes:

- Basic Information: Name, photo (optional) and key details.
- Communication Strengths: What the person can do well (e.g., uses gestures, understands simple instructions).
- Preferred Communication Methods: How they express themselves (e.g., speech, AAC device, Makaton, symbols).
- Understanding Tips: How to make communication easier for them (e.g., speak slowly, use short sentences, give extra time to respond).
- Support Strategies: Specific techniques or tools that help (e.g., visual supports, modelling).
- Things to Avoid: things that may cause confusion or distress (e.g., asking multiple questions at once).
- Additional Notes: Any relevant medical or sensory considerations.

Communication passports help to promote effective communication. They aim to ensure consistent communication across environments and people.

Try to write communication passports in clear, jargon-free language. You can use one of these one page communication passports. Pick the one most appropriate to your child and their age or stage of communication.

My name is: _____

My age is: _____

My class is: _____

I am good at: _____

Help my communication by: _____

People say that I am: _____

Name: _____

Age: _____

Class: _____

Insert picture here

Things I like:

I communicate by:

Things I don't like:

Help my communication by:

Things to know about me:

About Me

Name: _____ Age: _____
D.O.B _____
Special Educational Need and/or Disability: _____
Medical need: _____
Class: _____

What makes me happy? What do I like?

I am happy when:

I like:

Insert picture here

What helps my learning & communication?

I learn better when:

Help me by:

How can you support me?

I need:

It would be helpful if:

Anything else about me...

My goals are: